LOVE WISCONSIN

Hello Friends,

I am excited to be writing you as the new Executive Producer of Love Wisconsin. I've been on the job a few months now and am reminded everyday what an engaged and positive audience we have here at Love Wisconsin.

I am a fan of a good story. Storytelling has a way of amplifying voices and lowering fences and to me that is the beauty of Love Wisconsin. A little bit about me. I live in Madison with my family. I produce the Moth StorySlam each month and lead storytelling workshops. I grew up in a family owned small business and wrote a memoir about it called, "We Are Staying: Eighty Years in the Life of a Family, a Business, and a Neighborhood." And not to brag, but I am convinced that I make the best challah in Wisconsin—thanks to my grandma's recipe. (I will let you in on the recipe secrets here.)

About 150,000 people from across the state follow Love Wisconsin and we are a diverse bunch, regionally and politically—what a great opportunity for us to learn from each other. If you have suggestions of people to feature on Love WI or a tip on someplace cool in Wisconsin I should know about, you can get in touch with me at jen@lovewi.com. I am working with amazing local producers from around the state to find the people we feature and the stories we share. Over the next few months I'm excited to introduce you to the great bunch of writers and photographers who help our storytellers share their stories with you.

Looking forward to connecting with you, Jen
